1. Premium opportunity to learn about the Cochrane Collaboration

This year the annual Cochrane Colloquium will be held in Freiburg, Germany 3.-7.October. This Central European location is within easy reach from almost anywhere. Therefore, we would like to take this chance to recommend attending the conference to our friends and readers. The Cochrane Colloquium 2008 offers an outstanding opportunity to interact with central players active in evidence-based health care, global knowledge management and systematic reviews. Catch up on current international developments and perspectives and attend workshops to delve further into individual topics.

For more information see www.colloquium.info

The deadline for early registration is the 30th of June.

2. Changes to COHF database of intervention studies and reviews

The actual address of our database has been changed to a more security systems-friendly form. If you have had problems logging on to our database in the past because of eager virus protection software then please try again now. From late last year onwards we have also added the codes health promotion outcome (e.g. smoking, obesity, etc.) and cost-effectiveness outcome. You can use both in the Advanced Search function by looking for studies with "health promotion-outcome" or "cost-effectiveness outcome" in All Non-Indexed Text Fields. Try it out via our website at: www.cohf.fi.

The next proper issue of the COHF newsletter will be sent out in October-November as promised earlier.
